1. Scope

Like most businesses, we hold and process a wide range of information, and some of this relates to individuals who are applying to work for us, whether as a permanent or temporary employee, contractor, consultant, agent or intern.

This Recruitment Privacy Notice explains the type of information we process during the recruitment phase, why we are processing it, and how that processing may affect you. We have a separate Workplace Privacy Notice that applies to all our current employees¹. In 'Annex 1 - Supplementary Information', we explain what we mean by 'personal data', 'processing', 'special categories of personal data' and other terms used in this Recruitment Privacy Notice.

In brief, this Recruitment Privacy Notice explains:

- what personal data we hold and why we process it;
- the legal grounds which allow us to process your personal data;
- where the data comes from, who gets to see it and how long we keep it;
- how to access your personal data and other rights; and
- how to contact us.

2. Personal data – What we hold and why we process it

We process data for the purposes of our business including recruitment, management, administrative, employment and legal purposes. Annex 1 - Supplementary Information provides more specific information on these purposes, on the type of data that may be processed and on the grounds on which we process data.

3. Where the data comes from and who gets to see it

When you apply to work for us the initial data about you that we process is likely to come from you: for example, contact details, bank details and information on your immigration status and whether you can lawfully work for us.

We will, where necessary, and as set out in this Recruitment Privacy Notice, require references and information from you to carry out background checks on you. If you do not provide us with the necessary information, or information that you are required to do by statute or contract, we may decide not to employ you. If you have concerns about this, in a particular context, you should speak to your recruiter or our HR department.

We may also receive data from third party recruiters, agents and similar organisations as a part of the recruitment process and from your referees that provide us with references. Your personal data will be seen internally, to differing degrees, by some people within Peel Hunt LLP in order to fulfil their legal, contractual and regulatory obligations and duties (for example, by HR, Compliance, your potential line-manager and prospective colleagues). We will, where necessary, and as set out in this Recruitment Privacy Notice, also pass your data outside the organisation, for example to our background screening agency if we make you an offer. Further information on this is provided in Annex 1 - Supplementary Information.

4. How long do we keep your personal data?

We do not keep your personal data for any longer than is necessary for our purposes. In general, if you become employed by us, we will keep your personal data for the duration of your employment and for a reasonable period afterwards, as is more particularly set out in Appendix 12 of our Records Management Policy in respect of each of the relevant data categories. If you are unsuccessful in gaining employment with us, we will keep your personal data for no longer than 6 months after informing you that you were unsuccessful. In considering how long to keep your data, we will take into account its relevance to our business and your potential employment, either as a record or in the event of a legal claim.

¹ Please note: References throughout this Recruitment Privacy Notice to employees, employment, employment contracts, work, or similar expressions, include any arrangement that we may have under which an individual provides us with work or services. This includes, but is not limited to: employees, temporary workers, contractors, consultants, agents, advisors and interns.

5. Transfers of personal data outside the eea

In connection with our business and for employment, administrative, management and legal purposes, we will, where necessary, and as set out in this Recruitment Privacy Notice, transfer your personal data outside the EEA to members of the Peel Hunt group, processors in the US and, on occasion, to other jurisdictions in which we are established. When doing so, we will comply with our legal and regulatory obligations in relation to the personal information, including, but without limitation, having a lawful basis for transferring personal information, and putting appropriate safeguards in place to ensure an adequate level of protection for the personal information so transferred.

6. Your data rights

You have a right to make a subject access request to receive information about the personal data that we process about you. Further information on this and on other rights is in Annex 1 - Supplementary Information, where we also explain how to make a complaint about our processing of your data.

7. How to contact us

In processing your personal data, Peel Hunt LLP acts as a data controller. If you have any questions about this Recruitment Privacy Notice, or want to exercise your rights set out in this Recruitment Privacy Notice, please contact us by:

- sending an e-mail to dpo@peelhunt.com;
- writing to us at our registered address: 7th Floor, 100 Liverpool Street, London EC2M 2AT, United Kingdom; or
- telephoning us on: 0207 418 8900.

8. Your right to lodge a complaint with the Information Commissioner's Office

If you have a concern about any aspect of our privacy practices, including the way we have handled your personal information, you can report it to the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO). You can contact the ICO using the following website <https://ico.org.uk/concerns/> or by calling their helpline on 0303 123 1113.

9. Status of this Recruitment Privacy Notice

This Recruitment Privacy Notice does not form part of any contract of employment you might enter into with us and does not create contractual rights or obligations. It may be amended by us at any time. Nothing in this Recruitment Privacy Notice is intended to create an employment relationship between Peel Hunt LLP and any non-employee providing services to us.

Annex 1 - Supplementary information

1. What do we mean by 'personal data' and 'processing'?

1.1 Personal Data

'Personal data' means any information relating to you as a living person (the 'data subject') which can be used to identify you – directly or indirectly – by reference to an identifier such as a name, an identification number, location, an online identifier or to one or more factors specific to your physical, physiological, genetic, mental, economic, cultural or social identity. It not only includes facts about you, but also intentions and opinions about you.

1.2 Processing of Personal Data

'Processing' means any operation which is performed on personal data, whether or not by automated means, such as the collection, recording, organisation, structuring, storage, adaptation or alteration, retrieval, consultation, use, disclosure or dissemination or erasure or destruction of personal data.

1.3 Special Categories of Personal Data

Personal data revealing racial or ethnic origin, political opinions, religious or philosophical beliefs, health, sexual orientation, sex life, trade union membership and genetic and biometric data are subject to special protection and considered by EU privacy law to be 'special categories of personal data'.

1.4 Scope

References in this Recruitment Privacy Notice to employment, work (and similar expressions) include any arrangement we may have under which an individual provides us with work or services (including but not limited to employees, previous members of Peel Hunt LLP, temporary workers, contractors, consultants, advisors and interns). By way of example, when we refer to an 'employment contract', that is taken to include a contract under which you provide us with services; when we refer to ending your employment, that includes terminating a contract for services. We use the word 'you' to refer to anyone within the scope of this Recruitment Privacy Notice.

2. Legal grounds for processing personal data

Under data protection law, there are various grounds on which we can rely, when processing your personal data. In some contexts, more than one basis applies. We have summarised these grounds as Contract, Legal Obligation, Employment purposes, Legitimate Interests and Consent, and we outline what those terms mean in the following table.

Term	Grounds for processing	Explanation
Contract	Processing necessary for the performance of a contract with you, or to take steps at your request to enter a contract.	This covers carrying out our contractual duties and exercising our contractual rights such as those set out in our legal terms of employment with you.
Legal obligation	Processing necessary to comply with our legal obligations.	Ensuring we perform our legal and regulatory obligations. For example, providing a safe place of work and avoiding unlawful discrimination.
Employment Purposes	Processing necessary for the purposes of initiating employment.	This includes activities concerned with the initiation of employment or membership, or any other arrangement that we may have under which an individual provides us with work or services.
Legitimate Interests	Processing necessary for our, or a third party's, legitimate interests.	We may process your personal information for our and others' legitimate business interests whilst applying appropriate safeguards that protect your privacy. Your data will not be processed on this basis if our, or a third party's, interests are overridden by your own interests, rights and freedoms.
Consent	You have given specific consent to processing of your data.	In general, processing of your data in connection with employment is not conditional on your consent. But there may be occasions where we do specific things, such as requesting a reference or obtaining criminal record checks, and we rely on your consent to do so.

3. Processing special categories of personal data

We may process special categories of personal data about you (for example, about your gender or for the purposes of diversity monitoring), but only when one or more of the following grounds for processing such personal data applies:

- Processing being necessary for the purposes of your or our obligations and rights in relation to employment in so far as it is authorised by law or collective agreement;
- Processing relating to data about you that you have made public;
- Processing being necessary for the purpose of establishing, making or defending legal claims;
- Processing being necessary for provision of health care or treatment, medical diagnosis, and assessment of your working capacity;
- Processing for equality and diversity purposes, to the extent permitted by law.

4. Further information on the data we process and our purposes

This Recruitment Privacy Notice outlines the purposes for which we process your personal data. More specific information on these, examples of the data, and the grounds on which we process data, are outlined in the table below.

The examples in the table cannot, of course, be exhaustive. For example, although the table does not mention data relating to criminal offences, if we were to find out that someone applying to work for us was suspected of committing a criminal offence, we might process that information if relevant for our purposes. We also require basic criminal background checks for all roles, and standard checks for Senior Management Functions.

Providing information to third parties in connection with transactions that we contemplate or carry out	Information on any offer made to you and your proposed contract and other employment or membership data that may be required by a party to a transaction such as a prospective purchaser, seller or outsourcer.	Legal obligation Legitimate interests: requirement of due diligence process to ensure all necessary information is duly provided so that an informed decision can be made.
Monitoring of diversity and equal opportunities	Information on your nationality, racial and ethnic origin, gender, sexual orientation, religion, disability, age and socio-economic status as part of diversity monitoring initiatives. Such data may be aggregated and used for equality of opportunity monitoring purposes. Please note, we may share aggregated and anonymised diversity statistics with regulators, if formally required or requested.	Legitimate interest: to ensure that we have an equal and diverse workforce: processing is necessary for reasons of substantial public interest. Legal obligation
Disputes and legal proceedings	Any information relevant or potentially relevant to a dispute or legal proceeding affecting us.	Legitimate interest: the ability to investigate, establish, commence, respond to and defend against legal claims. Legal obligation

Please note that if you accept an offer from us we may process further information about you. We will provide you with our full Workplace Privacy Notice as part of the new joiner onboarding process.

5. Who gets to see your data?

5.1 Internal use

Where necessary, and as set out in this Recruitment Privacy Notice, your personal data will be disclosed to HR and Compliance and prospective line-managers, for employment, administrative and management purposes as mentioned in this Recruitment Privacy Notice. We will also disclose this to other members of the Peel Hunt group, where necessary for decision making regarding your application – this will depend on the type of role you are applying for.

5.2 External use

We will only disclose your personal data outside Peel Hunt if disclosure is consistent with one of the grounds for processing on which we rely, and doing so is lawful and fair to you. We will disclose your data if it is necessary for our legitimate interests as an organisation or the interests of a third party; but we will not do this if these interests are over-riden by your interests and rights, in particular to privacy. Where necessary, we will also disclose your personal data if you consent, where we are required to do so by law and in connection with criminal or regulatory investigations.

Specific circumstances in which your personal data may be disclosed include (but are not limited to):

- disclosure to organisations that process data on our behalf, such as our payroll providers, insurers, our recruitment (ATS) system and other benefit providers, our banks, and organisations that host our IT systems and data. This would normally occur if you accept an offer from us and would be carried out as part of the new joiner on-boarding process;
- disclosure to third party recruitment consultants and similar businesses (including online recruitment portals) as a part of the recruitment process;
- disclosure to any regulator as required as part of the recruitment process; and
- disclosure of aggregated and anonymised diversity data to relevant regulators as part of a formal request.

6. Access to your personal data and other rights

We try to be as open as we reasonably can about personal data that we process. If you would like specific or further information, please ask our HR department.

You also have a legal right to make a 'subject access request'. If you exercise this right and we hold personal data about you, we are required to provide you with information on it, including:

- Giving you a description and copy of the personal data;
- Telling you why we are processing it.

If you make a subject access request and there is any question about who you are, we may require you to provide information from which we can satisfy ourselves as to your identity. As well as your subject access rights, you may have a legal right to have your personal data rectified or erased, to object to its processing or to have its processing restricted. If you have provided us with data about yourself (for example, your address or bank details), you have the right to be given the data in machine readable format for transmitting to another data controller. This only applies if the grounds for processing is Consent or Contract. If we have relied on consent as a grounds for processing, you may withdraw consent at any time – although, should you do so, this will not affect the lawfulness of what we have done before you withdrew your consent.

7. Complaints

If you have complaints relating to our processing of your personal data, you should raise these with HR in the first instance. You may also raise complaints with your statutory regulator. For contact and other details please speak to our HR department.
